The thesis meets the general requirements (formatting, chapters, length, division into sections, etc.). References are cited properly within the text and a complete reference list is provided.	The text is organized in a logical manner. It flows naturally and is easy to follow. Transitions, summaries and conclusions exist as appropriate. The author demonstrates high quality writing skills and uses standard spelling, grammar, and punctuation.

The author fails to organize her references alphabetically. She doesn't list two references included in the thesis (Keegan, p. 3; Calon, p.7) in the references. The thesis doesn't meet the requirement of the minimum of 10 references.		The author's obilities are clearly visible in the second half of the thesis where findings are discussed and conclusions are drawn.

Final Comments & Questions

Ms. Conková shows a lot of enthusiasm about the topic of her thesis and expertise in the use of mobile technologies in language teaching. I appreciate her efforts to explore ICT instructional territories that have not been examined that much in the Czech context. Unfortunately, due to the scope of the research, it may be in question to what extend the presented research is of benefit to a broader audience. On the other hand, there is no doubt that it provides some ideas for areas of further research.

It is obvious that the author invested a lot of time and energy into the project; however, at the same time it is obvious that these were not sufficient enough to allow the author to complete a well-rounded and quality thesis (see my comments above). In sum, despite its many flaws, it is no doubt that this project positively contributed to Ms. Conková's education and professional growth as a language teaching professional.

I suggest that the author is awarded the grade "good" for her project.
